What is team culture?

Winning Culture in Basketball

1) Communication: The staff communicates constantly and honestly with their student-athletes and has productive relationships with them.

the terminology used to teach student-athletes, etc. Communication makes it easier for everyone to execute, whether it be everyday tasks or basketball plays in a game. All communication is not good; it has to be done effectively by being respectful.

Winning Culture in Basketball

2) Accountability: Every person in the basketball program is held accountable to be on time and do their job every day. Each person, from the players to the coaches all have a job to do. The only way for the winning culture to remain is for each person to make sure they are doing their job and willing to confront someone who is not. The basketball program's values are more important than the individual.

Winning Culture in Basketball

3) Consequences: Every time someone in the program is not doing their job, there are consequences.

Winning Culture in Basketball

4) Intensity at Practice: Basketball practices should be intense and competitive! With coaches holding each player accountable to perform at their maximum level every play.

Winning Culture in Basketball

5) Learning: Learning is a part of growth. Winning cultures develop environments where individuals welcome learning opportunities of all kinds in the pursuit of development.

Winning Culture in Basketball

6) Consistency: Coaches hold players accountable EVERY DAY! The players also hold each other accountable EVERY DAY!

Winning Culture in Basketball

7) Comfort Zone: Get out of it! You're here to get better!

Winning Culture in Basketball

8) Expectations: The expectations must continue to challenge everyone to get better every single day.

Winning Culture in Basketball

9) Sacrifice: Each person involved in the basketball program must drop their ego and sacrifice for the team. The word “I,” “You,” and “They” have to be replaced with words like “Us,” and “We.”

Winning Culture in Basketball

10) Enjoy: Enjoy every moment and never make yourself feel like a situation is better or worse than it seems. Enjoy the process!
